THE GAZETTE-TIMES.

With this issue "The Corvallis Daily Gazette-Times" is born of the union of the Gazette and the Times. Until such a time as support warrants it, the daily will be of its present size and will be devoted almost exclusively to local news. The telegraphic service cannot be supplied at this time for the reason that it is entirely too expensive. No town of this size has a daily giving its readers a good telegraphic service and Corvallis people cannot hope for it. However very special world happenings will be recorded in the columns of this paper, and every local event of even passing interest will be given as promptly as it can be obtained.

The public is urged to co-operate in this attempt to develop a daily worthy of Corvallis. As it will cost not less than $125 weekly to produce even a fairly creditable paper, there must necessarily be financial support. The daily should find a place in every home in this city. You can help us to get it there by subscribing for it and recommending it to your neighbor. The daily must also have ample advertising support, and it will strive to deserve that support.

It requires news to make a newspaper. You can co-operate in making the Gazette-Times a newsy paper, by telephoning the office items of news and giving reporters such information as you may have. If the people of Corvallis want a first-class daily they can get it by offering the proper financial support and co-operation in a newsy way. No promises are being made at the present time other than that the Daily and Weekly Gazette-Times will develop into a great paper just as rapidly as support warrants it.

The paper is a rather healthy infant and bids fair to develop into a splendid maturity. Won't you help it?

Married.

A very beautiful home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. Tom, June 29, when their daughter, Jennie B., was married to Charles A. Seaburg, of Portland. The invited guests had gathered in the parlor when at 10 a. m. the happy couple presented themselves to assume the matrimonial vows by a ring ceremony, after which they were congratulated by their relatives and friends. A delicious four-course dinner was served.

The bride is the highly esteemed daughter of the Corvallis night-watch, Mr. Tom, and the groom is a young business man of Portland, having been head foreman of the Marine Iron Works, and is now contractor of a large steel oil and water tank, having at the present time one under construction at Seattle and another at Vancouver, B. C.

A number of useful and valuable presents were received. The couple took their departure for their home the same day, to where the best wishes of all their friends will follow them.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Tom, Mrs. Leo Burnett and children, Doris and Dorothy Gross, Mrs. Sheldon, Mrs. E. A. Billings, Mr. Henry Besse, Mr. Gross, Mr. Leslie Lilly, Mr. and Mrs. Vidito and Mrs. J. M. Gendron.
